

INSIDE SEVENTEEN

VIDEO-MAKERS IN RESIDENCE —

Video artists Woody and Steina Vasulka have been named recipients of a year-long grant from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting and the National Endowment for the Arts as video-makers in residence. Internationally known as video experimentalists, the Vasulkas will produce six programs, hold seminars with the WNED-TV staff, and create an animated version of the Channel 17 logo, along with other projects.

FANS FLEA MARKET — Fans for 17 publicist Ethel Desmon reports that the volunteer group will sponsor a Flea Market to be held from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 9 in the WNED studios at 184 Barton St.

Fans President Beverly Bollard has announced the appointment of Mrs. John T. Elvin and Mrs. George H. Auffinger, III as co-chairpersons of this major fund raising event, which is a follow-up to the annual June Channel 17 auction.

Brand new merchandise will be on sale at bargain prices as well as gift certificates and tickets for sporting events. Also included: wooden toys, lamps, antiques, paintings, art, pieces, household supplies, wallpaper, furniture, fishing rods, sports equipment, china, glassware, Halloween costumes and new clothing for men, women and children donated by local merchants.

NEWS FOR SENIOR CITIZENS —

Ralph Kreinheder, former corporate counsel for National Gypsum Company, has begun a second career in broadcasting since his retirement at 64. He hosts "News for Senior Citizens", a new Channel 17 series of one-minute spots seen each week-night at eight and following Great Performances on Wednesday nights. Kreinheder was selected from some 14 candidates who auditioned for the position. Scripts for the series are written by Ann Hunt.
